Colors manual usmc

It is quite possible that the Gadsden flag was also carried on this expedition. The union, however, contained an eagle perched on a shield of the United States and a halfwreath beneath the shield, with 29 stars encircling the entire design. The design consisted of a blue field with a laurel wreath encircling the Marine Corps emblem in the center. This was followed by an order dated 14 March 1922, retiring from use all national colors still in use with yellow fringe or wording on the flag. Following World War I, the Army practice of attaching silver bands carrying inscriptions enumerating specific decorations and battles was adopted. This practice was discontinued on 23 January 1961. The design was essentially that of today's Marine Corps standard. On 29 July 1936, a Marine Corps Board recommended that the Army system of attaching streamers to the staff of the organizational colors be adopted. Such a system was finally authorized by Marine Corps Order No. 157, dated 3 November 1939, and is currently in practice. Devices are embroidered onto the streamer to denote special recognition or repeat awards. Unlike the Army and Air Force flags, only a single streamer is utilized for a single campaign, with the exception of those streamers that require more than eight devices, the maximum any one streamer may hold. It will also bear the streamers authorized to the unit, or scarlet and gold tassels if none are authorized. The organizational colors are often passed as part of change of command ceremonies to symbolize the transfer of office. When not in use as part of a parade or ceremony, the colors are traditionally kept in the commander's office. The regimental level numeral will be displayed in the lower left corner, unless a higher or lower command numeral provides better identification for example, a battalion's headquarters company would display that battalion's numeral instead of the regiment. <http://afmc-lubrication.com/userfiles/esonic2-manual.xml>

The company level designation letter, abbreviated title, or number will be in the lower right corner. Some units incorporate additional banners or mascots into unofficial guidons. Much like the colors, the guidon represents the unit commander. It is entrusted to the unit guide for parades and ceremonies, and displayed in or near the commanders office when he or she is present. First and second phase platoons have a gold background with their four digit platoon number in scarlet, while third phase platoons have a scarlet background with gold lettering and trim. The guidon is used as an aid to instilling unit identity and pride, representing the platoon. Some drill instructors will test that pride by attempting to dishonor the guidon and expecting the recruits to intervene. Also, the recruit assigned to carry it, the guide, is treated as the most senior recruit of the platoon, and uses the guidon to mark the line of advance in close order drill. A red background with white stars are used, while the Commandant also has a grey and gold Eagle, Globe, and Anchor. These flags are often used to mark a command headquarters in garrison, as well as a symbol for the general himself. Much like a guidon, they are displayed when the general is present, and stowed when not; visiting officers and officials often have their personal flags displayed as a courtesy. The base of the spearhead is used to support streamers or tassels if authorized. Older organizational colors may also have silver bands, awarded for participation in a battle or campaign, though the practice has been discontinued for all but the Corps main battle colors. When the national flag is flown from a ship, it is referred to as the national ensign. Archived from the original on 5 October 2010. Retrieved 2 February 2010. The National Geographic Society. Marines who have served for 6 months on active duty in the grade of Pvt will be promoted to PFC, if the Marine's service has been satisfactory as determined by the commanding officer. TIG will be computed from the 1st day of the month of entry on active duty. For example, a Pvt who entered active duty on 27 May 2000 will be promoted to PFC on 1 November 2000. If the Marine's service has been satisfactory, the TIG and TIS are computed as if the Pvt entered active duty on the 1st day of May. Time spent in the delayed entry program will not be used to compute TIG or TIS for promotion to PFC. Pvts who are hospitalized for periods that preclude normal completion of recruit training will be promoted to PFC while in recruit training, if recommended and not in a promotion restriction status paragraph 1204 applies, upon attaining 6 months TIG. Although the Marine will be in a paid status as a PFC, the enlistee is not authorized to wear the PFC insignia until completion of recruit training. A select grade of E2 will post to the unit's Diary Feedback Report DFR the month prior to the promotion month for all Pvts who meet the TIG requirement. The select grade will not post if the commander reports a "NOT REC PROM" not recommended for promotion entry on the unit diary by the 15th of the month prior to the effective date of promotion. This applies to those Marines who are in a transit or leave status on the 1st day of the month. In these instances, or any other circumstances when the promotion is not effected on the 1st day of the month and the Marine is recommended, the command will effect the promotion on the unit diary with the date of rank and effective date of the 1st day of the month reflected in the select grade. The certificate of appointment will reflect the same dates as input on the unit diary. However, Commanders may waive certain restrictions for deserving Pvts see paragraph 1204.

A select grade will continue to post to the unit's DFR each subsequent month unless a "NOT REC" entry is reported. This entry should be reported NLT the 15th of the month prior to the promotion month. Marines not recommended for promotion require a page 11 counseling entry and a monthly unit diary entry, per the current edition of MCO 1070.12. This will preclude future commands from requesting remedial promotion based on TIG. A partial month is computed as a whole month for both elements. For example, a PFC promoted with a date of rank of 1 June 2000 and a PFC meritoriously promoted with a date of rank of 2 June 2000 both meet the 8 months TIG requirement on 1 February 2001. A Marine who is appointed a PFC upon initial entry on active duty contract PFC with a date of rank of 27 June 2000 meets the 8 months TIG and 9 months TIS requirement on 1 March 2001. A select grade of E3 will post to the unit's DFR the month prior to the promotion month for all PFCs who meet the TIG and TIS requirements. The select grade will not post if the commander Unit's DFR the month prior to the promotion month for all PFCs who meet the TIG and TIS requirements. The select grade will not post if the commander reports a "NOT REC" entry on the unit diary by the 15th of the month prior to the effective date of promotion. This applies to those Marines who are in a transit or leave status on the 1st day of the month. The certificate of appointment will reflect the same dates as input on the unit diary. However, commanders may waive certain restrictions for deserving LCpls see paragraph 1204. A select grade will continue to post on the unit's DFR each subsequent month unless a "NOT REC" entry is reported. Marines not recommended for promotion require a page 11 counseling entry and a monthly unit diary entry, per the current edition of MCO 1070.12. If not recommended by the commander, however, the Marine may be promoted the next month that he or she is recommended.

Prior service in another branch of the Armed Forces is not applicable for prior service credit. To a large extent, accomplishment of the ultimate mission — success in battle — depends on the manner in which Marines are developed into small unit leaders and their professional abilities. Consequently, no Marine should be promoted to Cpl or Sgt who has not positively demonstrated the potential, motivation, and maturity to satisfactorily discharge the duties of a small unit leader. Therefore, it is even more critical to ensure that a commander's recommendation concerning a Marine's promotion to Cpl or Sgt is a thoughtful, deliberate decision. Each Marine recommended must be worthy of the title "Noncommissioned Officer." Marines should be recommended for promotion to Cpl or Sgt only after demonstrating they are worthy of the next higher grade. Promotions will be authorized on the basis of vacancies existing throughout the Marine Corps and will be effected by authorized commanders. Promotions will be effected monthly by primary MOS or intended MOS once the monthly promotion authority MARADMIN is received by the command and the "SELECT GRADE" is reflected on the unit's DFR. The command will effect the promotion on the unit diary and prepare the certificate of appointment. These promotions will be based on composite scores CS which are automatically computed quarterly for each eligible LCpl. The term "eligible" as it relates to promotion refers to any LCpl who meets the 8 months TIG and 12 months TIS requirement by the end of the promotion quarter. The determination of which eligible LCpls will be promoted, subject to the composite score stipulation, is the sole responsibility of the commander. Therefore, it is possible for a Marine to receive a select grade prior to obtaining the required 8 months TIG. If the Marine is recommended for promotion by the commander, he or she should be promoted.

Promotions will be authorized on the basis of vacancies existing throughout the Marine Corps and will be effected by authorized commanders. These promotions will be based on composite scores CS automatically computed quarterly for each eligible Cpl. The term "eligible" as it relates to promotion refers to any Cpl who meets the 12 month TIG and 24 month TIS requirement by the end of the promotion quarter. The determination of which eligible Cpls will be promoted, subject to the composite score stipulation, is the sole responsibility of the commander. It is possible for a Marine to receive a select grade prior to obtaining the required 12 months TIG. If the Marine is otherwise recommended for promotion, he or she should be promoted. b. Cpls who are in a promotion restriction status, per paragraph 1204 will not be promoted. Many errors occur in which a Marine is not promoted by issuance of a promotion certificate because of administrative oversight by the command; i.e., failure to promote on the 1st of the month or erroneously entering "not recommended for promotion" in the MCTFS. The certificate must reflect the same dates as input on the unit diary. The following situations are examples of delayed promotions Marines who are promoted under their intended MOS, and later fail to complete the qualifications for that MOS, will be administratively reduced paragraph 6002.1 applies. A LCpl or Cpl who reenlists and makes a lateral move is no longer eligible to be promoted in his former primary MOS. Interruption of active service for periods of less than 24 hours for the purpose of reenlistment will not be considered as an interruption of service for selection board purposes. Such erroneous selections will be reported by the commander and subsequently deleted from the selection list. Reserve Marines in each category will compete for selection only with Marines in the appropriate category i.e.

, SMCR with SMCR, IRR with IRR, and AR with AR, except IRR and SMCR GySgts and 1stSgts

compete together for selection to SMCR 1stSgt and SgtMaj, respectively. Interruption of service for periods of less than 24 hours for the purpose of reenlistment will not be considered as an interruption of service for selection board purposes. Interruption of service for periods of less than 24 hours for the purpose of reenlistment will not be considered as an interruption of service for selection board purposes. Interruption of service for periods of less than 24 hours for the purpose of reenlistment will not be considered as an interruption of service for selection board purposes. Marines considered in the wrong component will be considered erroneously selected and deleted from the list of Marines selected with the following exceptions. If directly or subsequently augmented to the regular component USMC, they will then be considered by active component selection boards occurring after the effective date of augmentation. The component code should represent duty type i.e., C4, B4 and the Reserve component code should represent the Marine's component IRR, SMCR. The primary and foremost requisite is outstanding leadership, combined with an exceptionally high degree of professional competence and the ability to act independently as the principal enlisted assistant to the commander in all administrative, technical, and tactical requirements of the organization. Therefore, there will be no redesignation of those Marines selected for promotion to the grades of first sergeant or master sergeant from one grade to the other. GySgts, regardless of MOS, who meet the minimum TIG and TIS requirements for consideration to 1stSgt at the time the annual Sergeant Major through Master Sergeant Selection Board or Reserve SNCO Selection Board, as appropriate, convenes, will be reviewed to determine if they have indicated a preference for 1stSgt.

Those GySgts eligible for consideration for 1stSgt who have indicated a preference for 1stSgt with an "F" on the most recent fitness report will compete for 1stSgt. Those GySgts eligible for consideration for 1stSgt who have indicated a preference for MSgt with an "M" on their most recent fitness report will be considered as not selected for 1stSgt. Note Marines considered for 1stSgt, but not selected, are not considered as passed over for promotion.. Regardless of whether the eligible Marine has indicated a preference to 1stSgt with an "F" on the most recent fitness report, to be "fully qualified" for selection to 1stSgt, the Marine must be PME qualified and submit a letter of intent to the president of the Reserve SNCO Selection Board stating his or her willingness to serve in specific 1stSgt billets, prior to the convening date of the selection board, in the format shown in figure 32. CMC RAP will announce first sergeant billet vacancies via MARADMIN prior to the convening date of the selection board. Eligible Marines who do not submit a letter of intent will be considered less than "fully qualified" for promotion and not selected. The Marine will not be considered in the promotion zone until the current DOR meets the promotion zone requirement. Requests for prior service consideration must be forwarded to the CMC MMR2 in the format provided in figure 33. The following restrictions apply Unsatisfactory service will not be included; i.e., if a Marine serves two years as a Sgt and is punitively reduced to Cpl, the service in the grade of Sgt is not considered satisfactory service. It does not change the DOR assigned in the MCTFS at the time of the Marine's reenlistment. Our Corps leaders of tomorrow must be educated and prepared to accept the responsibilities of small unit leaders, as well as command and staff assignments, in joint or combined arms environments.
